We give place to the communication of "An Observer," and would remark, that the writer of the article to which he refers did not probably intend to portray the character of all females in every community, but some females in almost all communities. The women in Bangor, generally speaking, are industrious and economical, but we presume, that here as in other cities, there are exceptions, and for those the article was intended.

For the Whig and Courier

"How to reduce your household expenses."

Dear Editor. Your acknowledgement to the "New-York Dispatch" for the article which I wish to answer, will exonerate you from the suspicion of being personal. Without making any remarks on the very pretty picture the writer fancy has portrayed, derogatory to the character of our females, permit me to say that the point of essay is extremely circumscribed. It may do for Bangor, it cannot apply to the vicinity. Without remarking on the general scope of the article upon which I am commenting, I wish to call your attention to the last paragraph:

"Women to be prudent in money or in secrets, require only to be trusted, and many a lady gads, expensively, for mere lack of employment."

Mr. Editor. Are you married? Do you believe that your lady "gads expensively" from mere "lack of employment"? Can you point your finger to any one of your neighbors that does? On the contrary is it not within your own personal knowledge, that this charge is contrary to the fact in this community? "Require only to be trusted!" is this the fact? "Require only to be trusted!" How poor an opinion the New-York Dispatch must have of the female-character. Let him be more thoroughly acquainted with "women," and, instead of "gadding expensively," and spending his daily "pence" in confectionary, let him buy his child a frock.

AN OBSERVER.

One of our most respected citizens, Mr. David Hart, met with a sad accident yesterday. He had no occasion to go into the store of J. M. Price & Co. and not observing that the scuttle was open, as he passed along, stepped into it, he struck his forehead as he pitched forward, against the side of the scuttle, and bruised his head badly, and fell into the cellar, breaking two or three of his ribs. We have not learned that he was dangerously, though he was very seriously injured.

By the Revenue Cutter Hamilton, Captain Sturgis, which was ordered to Yarmouth to inquire into the cause of the detention of the fishing vessels by the British authorities, has returned. Captain B. has furnished the Boston Gazette with a letter containing the substance of the testimony in regard to the several cases. It appears that of the four schooners captured, one of them the Magnolia did not violate the Treaty, by being within the prohibited limits: The Independence did not fish on the forbidden ground, but left their nets for one night only to some Nova Scotia fishermen, and received in return, a few herring. A third vessel, the Hart, avoided fishing within the limits prohibited, but her captain and one man assisted a Nova Scotia fisherman in mending nets and salting fish too near to the British territory. How far these acts will be adjudged flagrant violations of the treaty stipulations, remains to be proved. A fourth was, however, the Java, it is admitted violated the treaty, and will undoubtedly be condemned.

BELMONT.

Is it not about time for the locomotives to get up their old story of "travelling cabinet"? The President is on an electioneering tour to New York, and some of the members of his cabinet are also on the move. Don't be modest, gentlemen, because they happen to be your political friends, but "every blood and spore not." The population of East Boston is now 1700. There was but a single house there five years ago. The Madisonian says that the locomotives have no prospect of electing more than three representatives to Congress from Tennessee out of 13 members. Polk's defeat in the gubernatorial race is certain by a very large majority. Of the sixty-seven receivers at Land Agencies in the United States, thirty-four are Defaulters. Do the people want any further proof of the corruption of those who administer the General Government. General Stapp, Fund Commissioner of Indiana, has, it is said, negotiated a loan of four millions for the State to carry on her internal improvements. The lumber operations in Maine for the present season, says the N. York Star, will it will amount to 50 millions feet. If the Star will substitute Bangor instead of Maine, it will come much nearer the truth. The Steamship Thor is about to ply between Boston and Niantic. "Teddy my boy, just guess how many cheeves there is in this ere bag an' faith I'll gin ye the whole five." "I've to be sure," says Teddy. "Arrah my soul, bad luck to the man that told ye." Mr. Bailey who rescued the master of the steamer Boston was presented with a silver pitcher as a token of esteem. An apprentice boy was condemned to jail at East Boston on Tuesday, on a charge of stealing ten dollars from his master's chest. The ways of the transgressor are hard.

STATE OF MAINE.

Executive Department.

August 25, 1838

To His Excellency, Major General Sir John Harvey, Lieutenant Governor of New Brunswick.

Sir I have the honor to inclose to your Excellency a copy of a resolve passed by the Legislature of the State of Maine, and approved by the Governor, March 23, 1838, and also to inform you that the contingencies therein having not having occurred, and the commission referred to not having been established, it becomes my imperative duty, after the first day of September instant, to appoint suitable commissioners and surveyors, for the purpose specified in said resolve; and that I have appointed John G. Deane, Milford F. Norton and James Irish, Esquires, as commissioners, and William B. Parrott, surveyor, under said resolve.

"I have also the honor to inform your Excellency, that I have instructed the said commissioners and surveyor to proceed to the eastern boundary line of this State, and to explore and examine the country bordering on the same, and to ascertain how far any line of exploration, or otherwise, has been traced and marked towards the northwest angle of Nova Scotia, as claimed by Maine and the United States; and to follow the same examining the line of the country and the streams, and ascertaining the elevations, and to move on a due north line towards the height of land where is to be found the spot which we claim as the northwest angle of Nova Scotia, making careful observations of all parts relative to the character of the country, and bearing of the question pending between the two Governments; and also in like manner tracing and examining the northern line along the highlands which divide the rivers falling into the St. Lawrence from those falling into the Atlantic Ocean.

In short, the object of the expedition is to ascertain by examination upon the face of the earth, the actual facts, and the practicability of running and locating a due north line, according to our construction of the treaty, and to obtain a topographical report of the country, particularly about the northwest angle of Nova Scotia.

The sole design of this note is to give your Excellency the facts relative to the nature and object of the expedition under present instructions, that you may understand the exact state of the matter, knowing that there are many vague rumors, and unfounded reports on the subject, tending to mislead and deceive.

With great respect,

I have the honor to be

Your most ob't servant,

EDWARD KENT,

Governor of the State of Maine.

[ANSWER]

Government House.

Fredericton, N. B. Oct. 1, 1838.

Sir — I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt, by the hands of J. S. Little, Esq., of your Excellency's communication of the 25th ultmo, enclosing the copy of a resolve of the Legislature of the State of Maine, and informing me that you have appointed commissioners and surveyors under that resolve, and have furnished them with instructions of which your Excellency has been pleased to detail to me the substance.

After having seen the resolutions adopted by the Congress of the United States on the 4th of July last, I confess I had not expected any further action on the part of Maine, in reference to a question which is now in discussion between the two General Governments, with, as I firmly believe, a sincere desire to bring it to an early and satisfactory close.

Mr. B. however, succeeded in freeing him self from his grasp and again brought him manfully to the surface where he most fortunately derived temporary relief from a plank which had been thrown out from the steamboat, which enabled him to sustain his burthen until he could reach a water logged boat belonging to a schooner lying at the wharf, which he had just got hold of when the boat belonging to the steamer came to their rescue, and conveyed them on board. The master was almost gone, but there being fortunately a physician on board, he was gradually resuscitated and conveyed in the steamer to East Boston. Mr. Bayley was a good deal exhausted, but recovered without assistance, and being supplied with a dry suit of clothes, proceeded with the party on their excursion, as fresh as if nothing had happened, and seeming apparently to thing but lightly of the fact he had performed, although he had undoubtedly saved the life of a fellow-being.

ASHLAND AND MR. CLAY.

The Philadelphia North American is publishing a series of letters from the pen of Rev. Dr. Humphrey of Amherst College, who is now traveling in the West. The following paragraphs respecting Ashland and Mr. Clay, we extract from his last letter.

Happening to meet, and to be introduced to Mr. Clay in the morning, he very politely invited us to call at his seat, a mile out of town, which we did at 4 o'clock. He received us with all the ease and urbanity for which he is so much distinguished and entered freely into conversation upon a variety of topics as they happened to come up. It is delightful to find a great man so perfectly affable and unaffected; and indeed this is one mark of true greatness.

ASHLAND is an enchanting and venerable mansion on the border of a park, of eighty acres, which for the majesty and beauty of its thousand and forest trees, is the finest I ever saw. Mr. Clay has two other woodland pastures, and in all, something like 800 acres in his farm. He has lately turned his attention very much to raising stock, and is said to be in a very fine open and cows than he can. He spent an hour in walking with us over his grounds, and detained us, almost imperceptible to ourselves, till nearly sundown.

Laughable. A young belle in our city having heard a pretty little song sung by the Miss Shaw's at the Philadelphia Museum, termed "we love each other because we had nothing to do," determined to procure it, and for that purpose stepped into a fashionable music store in Chestnut street. A young gentleman was behind the counter, busily engaged with a pen, when the young lady inquired: "Pray sir, have you nothing else to do?" The gentleman jumped from his desk as if electrified. He stammered, looked confounded and replied: "Ye, yes, in no 'nothing else to do miss." The blushing maiden was so amused with the look of the bewildered youth, that no longer able to contain her merriment, she pressed her handkerchief to her blushing lips and vanished, ere the gentleman was fairly recovered from his shock.

[Philadelphia paper.]

SWARTWOUT is a Whig or a Conservative? So says the Globe. Indeed what if he is?

Why did Jackson appoint him to office? Why did Wondbury let him go on for three years without even securing bonds, as the law required? Why did Lewis Palmer, a Virginian, register his account and suffer him to walk out with a million of dollars? Whether Swartwout is or is not a Whig, or whether he is not the guilty, it is the insincerity and negligence of the Octogenarian which the people at plain.

BY THE WAY, the Argus unblushingly tells its readers that Governor Kent asked "mission" of Sir John Harvey to make a topographical examination of the country, and timely succeeded under an flagitious claim of jurisdiction, on the part of that Octogenarian, "Credit and Care." Now, as to the "mission," the thesis of inventive, what language would be strong enough to express the true character of such conduct?

Let us look at the facts. After the commissioners had received their instructions, and went proper instruments and office, probably by their way, Governor Kent does what? Not only the representative of our adversary of what he is about to do. Was he wrong in thus performing, whatever in a matter of private litigation would have been a thing of course, and what between the rulers of State could not with a due regard to the plainest laws of international courtesy, have omitted? It may as well be remarked here, that, at the time, this step was not only approved, but most strenuously urged by a great leader of the party, whose name can be given at any moment, it desired.

Again, it is well known that the democratic papers in this State had abounded with misrepresentations as to Governor Kent's contemplated action under the resolution. He had been denounced as desirous of having an excitement of wishing to show his pluck, as designing to call out a military force to protect the commissioners, and in fact, every effort had been made to inflame the public mind, not only here, but in New Brunswick, by these consistent patriots. Will it be remembered, when such things are remembered, to believe that they wished to embarrass his action, and to get him into difficulty if they could, caring little what the consequences might be, so they injured him?

The notice then, was not only demanded by courtesy, but was rendered imperatively a matter of duty to our State. It was highly proper that Sir John Harvey should know what was intended, and that if he chose to interfere, it should not be in his power to ascertain that he had been informed, as in courtesy he should have been, of the objects of the expedition, he should not have considered himself bound to interrupt it. It was a matter of wisdom to throw the responsibility entirely upon him.

Let us suppose that no notice had been given and that in consequence, the commissioners had been seized and carried off, and thus the State been involved in a border warfare, just a about the time Mr. Kent went out of office, and all its difficulties thrown upon his successor.

How then, would have stood off the dog-ban of the party. Then we should have heard it asked, and with reason, "Why did not Governor Kent inform the British authorities what he was about?" Then all would have been smooth.

Then the responsibility would have been on Sir John Harvey. But no, he wanted to get the State into difficulty, and leave his successor to get rid of it as he could.

That such was the nature of all that abuse which had been prepared and stereotyped for the joyfully anticipated occasion of a hoped for collision, can admit of no reasonable doubt.

Again however, were all such delightful anticipations withered in the opening?
